1 The claims on behalf of AB arise from injuries AB sustained as a result of an incident at 2 the premises of Wal-Mart in Spanaway, Washington on October 1, 2008 ("the incident"). At that 3 time, AB was two years of age.

4 At approximately 7:20pm, AB, his mother Shani Berry, and two other children used a 5 paved walkway that had been designed, built, and maintained by Wal-Mart. Wal-Mart invited 6 the public to use the walkway. The walkway allowed a direct and paved pathway between a 7 parking area and a Community Transit bus stop and parking area and the entrance to the Wal-8 Mart store.

9 The group used the walkway after leaving the Wal-Mart store. While on the walkway, 10 AB reached out and touched one of six identical lighting units which lined the paved walkway 11 with his left hand. AB touched the unit with his left fingers, and he was electrocuted. He 12 sustained significant electrical burn injuries. The injuries include a deep partial thickness 13 electrical burn at the areas of at his left index, middle, and pinkie fingers. His index finger is 14 currently deformed and will require a surgical procedure in the future. Thus far AB required in-15 patient hospitalizations, has undergone five surgical procedures, and will have another when he 16 reaches sufficient age and growth. In the course of care, AB developed a skin graft infection at 17 his left finger. Drainage of the infection and removal of the allograft revealed significant necrosis 18 of tissue and a rupture of the flexor tendon. AB was maintained on pain medications such as 19 oxycodone and Tylenol for significant time periods. AB experienced multiple associated 20 symptoms which included diarrhea, behavioral issues, and excoriation of the skin around his 21 testicles and his inner groin, and diaper rash.

1 The lighting unit that AB touched, along with five other identical units installed in the 2 same area was all manufactured by Spaulding Lighting. The units were all connected to a central 3 power source. Each unit essentially consisted of a fixture attached to a 3' light pole. Normally, 4 it is not dangerous to touch the unit. The live wires are located such that they cannot be 5 contacted unless the exterior of the fixture is broken. However, the unit AB touched was badly 6 damaged so that AB easily contacted a live wire. The only ways live wires could be accessed is 7 if the exterior of the fixture is broken in such a manner access is possible. More likely however, 8 the clips which secure the fixture had been broken, and the fixture was wholly or partially 9 dislodged from the light pole. Because Wal-Mart failed to document any investigation and failed 10 to preserve a record of the conditions, the appearance of the fixture at the time cannot be known.
 11

12 Wal-Mart alleges that the fixture (along with five others) had been damaged by an 13 unknown vandal or vandals at some undetermined but earlier date and time. Wal-Mart alleges it 14 had no way to know the fixture presented a risk of electrocution, because "it looked completely 15 normal". It appears that all six units were badly damaged prior to the incident.

16 Wal-Mart did not have an established practice or policy for regular physical inspections 17 or documentation of inspections to assess the walkway or lighting units for unsafe conditions.
 18 Wal-Mart cannot provide any records to document the condition of the area or lighting units in 19 the days or weeks prior to the incident. Wal-Mart has security cameras in the area, but they fail 20 to show the involved lighting unit. The video provided by Wal-Mart does purportedly show the area 21 in the several minutes prior to the incident. The video's does not indicate the existence of 22 contemporaneous vandalism to the fixtures.

 SUMMARY JUDGMENT AND RESPONSE TO SPAULDING LIGHTINGS MOTION

 No. 3:12-cv-05076-RJB

1 The condition of the dangerous unit immediately prior to and subsequent to the incident 2 is uncertain because Wal-Mart did not preserve evidence or document the scene before it was 3 altered by Wal-Mart. The means Wal-Mart used to remove the fixtures is also unknown, but 4 may have damaged the units. Wal-Mart did not document whether debris was located in the 5 area, which could indicate whether the vandalism was more recent. Significant damage to the 6 fixtures was described by Douglas Barovsky, PE who inspected exemplar units for Wal-Mart on 7 May 21, 2009. Mr. Barovsky describes observable damage to the fixture's glass diffusers, 8 interior brackets or clips, louvers, and lenses. This is apparent damage which would be 9 observable by Wal-Mart prior to the incident.

10 The length of time Wal-Mart allowed the hazard to exist would normally be ascertainable 11 or narrowed by use of inspection reports or checklists. This cannot be done in this matter 12 because Wal-Mart did not document or conduct regular physical inspections.

13 The scope, extent, and timing of the alleged vandalism are not known. Wal-Mart did not 14 make any affiliated vandalism reports. Wal-Mart did not create or preserve any documentation 15 that the incident or vandalism was investigated in its regular course of business. There are no 16 incident reports of the October 1, 2008 incident, or investigation records. Wal-Mart also did not 17 retain or cannot locate evidence of a store policy or practice of safety or other inspections of the 18 walkway area in the months or years which preceded the incident. The area and 19 instrumentalities were under the exclusive control of Wal-Mart. The spoliation of evidence by 20 Wal-Mart is the only reason various facts including the length of time the lighting unit presented 21 a hazardous condition prior to the incident are undetermined.

1 It is known that the unit presented an unreasonable hazard to users on October 1, 2008.

2 This is known because two-year old AB was electrocuted simply by touching the unit.

3 Immediately after AB was electrocuted, Shani Berry and AB returned to the store and 4 reported the incident and apparent injuries to Wal-Mart employees. Wal-Mart did not investigate 5 the incident. Wal-Mart did not preserve the scene or document the conditions. Wal-Mart did not 6 create an incident report. Although after the incident, Wal-Mart employees removed the light 7 box fixtures from either their poles or from the ground (the condition and appearance of the 8 fixtures and area immediately subsequent to the occurrence and before removal by Wal-Mart 9 was not documented). Wal-Mart did not record or preserve a record of the conditions of the 10 scene.

12 This matter was originally filed on September 30, 2011 in Pierce County Superior Court.
 13 Teri Rideout, Esq. represented the interests of AB, through AB's prior GAL, Cheryl Robbins-14 Berg. Ms. Rideout also represented Shani Berry, AB's mother. Defendant Spaulding Lighting 15 was added to the Pierce County Superior Court case by amended complaint. On January 27, 16 2012, upon diversity grounds, Spalding filed a Notice of Removal to federal court.

18 For reasons detailed in the pleadings associated with Ms. Rideout and Ms. Berg's 19 respective Motions of Withdrawal, the case for AB sat "fallow" for several months. Due to 20 client difficulties with Shani Berry, the development of the case was stalled, and the case 21 scheduling order was not followed. Disclosures were not made, discovery was not pursued, 22 areas requiring expert testimony had not been determined, and witnesses were not retained or 23 disclosed. This court granted Ms. Rideout and Ms. Berg's Withdrawal motions on July 13, 2012.

1 AB remained unrepresented until the undersigned appeared on November 13, 2012.

2 Shani Berry is still unrepresented. The undersigned obtained possession of the bulk of the file

10 1. Should this Motion be Continued or Deferred pursuant to FRCP 56(d) to allow Evidence to be Obtained Necessary to Controvert the Motion and establish the Claims for AB.

11 2. Should the Court Deny Summary Judgment where Review of the Evidence by a Reasonable Mind Could Lead to Different Conclusions, and Where there is Not an Absence of Genuine Issues of Material Fact.

12 EVIDENCE RELIED UPON

14 AUTHORITY AND ARGUMENT

15

16 1. It is Appropriate for the court to Continue or Defer Wal-Mart's Motion Pursuant to FRCP 56(d)

17 FRCP 56(d) provides authority for the court to continue, defer, deny, or otherwise ensure the 18 equitable administration of its rules, and when appropriate ensure that the interests of justice are 19 served.

20 FRCP 56(d) reads:

 23 its opposition, the court may:

1 (1) defer considering the motion or deny it;

2 (2) allow time to obtain affidavits or declarations or to take discovery; or

3 (3) issue any other appropriate order.

4 (e) FAILING TO PROPERLY SUPPORT OR ADDRESS A FACT. If a party fails to properly support an 5 assertion of fact or fails to properly address another party's assertion of fact as required 6 by Rule 56(c), the court may:

7 (1) give an opportunity to properly support or address the fact;

8 (2) consider the fact undisputed for purposes of the motion;

9 (3) grant summary judgment if the motion and supporting materials — including the facts 10 considered undisputed — show that the movant is entitled to it; or 11 (4) issue any other appropriate order.

12 In this matter, time is needed for plaintiff's counsel to retain additional expert testimony.

13 Such is necessary to directly controvert the claims in Wal-Mart's motion, and to establish claims 14 for AB at trial. Counsel could retain or disclose additional expert's for response to this motion, 15 because the disclosure deadlines had passed prior to counsel's appearance.

16 The need for a FRCP 56(d) remedy is not due to fault of AB, of counsel, or of the current 17 SGAL. The claims upon AB's behalf had lain fallow, and they not been fully developed by prior 18 counsel for reasons stated in the pleadings. Current counsel was not able to obtain the file from 19 prior counsel until November 15, 2012. By that date, important case schedule deadlines had 20 already been missed for AB. By the time current counsel obtained the file, it was too late in the 21 case schedule for counsel to develop AB's claims. Critical dates had already lapsed. There has 22 not been opportunity to retain necessary expert witnesses; there has been no opportunity to 23 follow-up on written discovery; and no depositions have occurred. Specific to Wal-Mart's

1 summary judgment motion, Tarutis seeks time to retain expert testimony to directly controvert 2 Wal-Mart's motion.

3 The court could certainly deny Wal-Mart's motion on the substantive grounds that the 4 evidence and reasonable inferences do not establish the absence of genuine issues for trial.
 5 However, AB's claims cannot be established at trial absent opportunity for counsel to add 6 additional witnesses on both liability and damages. Liability issues expected to be addressed 7 will likely include opinion evidence as to industry standards and custom practices and the 8 adequacy and reasonableness of Wal-Mart's accident\injury prevention procedures and practices 9 for the subject walkway and lighting units. Such will necessarily include evidence which directly 10 bears upon the issue of notice, including foreseeability.

11 12 Counsel has already consulted with likely expert witnesses. Counsel is prepared to 13 quickly retain an expert and provide evidence to directly meet this motion.
 14

15 2. SUMMARY JUDGMENT SHOULD BE DENIED.

16 a. The Court Should Deny Summary Judgment Because There Are Genuine Issues
 17 of Material Fact. Further, Viewing the Evidence and Resolving Inferences in a 18 Light Most Favorable to the Non-Movant, Reasonable Minds Could Reach 19 Different Conclusions.

20 In determining if summary judgment is appropriate, the court must consider all evidence 21 and inferences in a light most favorable to the non-moving party. Ranger Ins. Co. v. Pierce

7 Summary judgment must be denied where the evidence itself fails to establish the 8 absence of material factual issues. This is true even without submission of opposing evidence.
 9 Cornell University Law School, Legal Information Institute, Rule 56 Summary Judgment, Notes 10 of Advisory Committee on Rules – 1945 Amendment, 2007 Amendment.

11 b. Wal-Mart's Duty of Care.

12 A possessor of land owes the highest duty of care for landowners to business visitors and 13 invitees. 16 Wash. Prac., Tort Law And Practice § 17.5 (3d ed.) (Citing Home v. North Kitsap 14 School Dist., 92 WnApp 709, 965 P.2d 1112 (1998)). The duty is that of reasonable or ordinary 15 care. This includes an affirmative duty to inspect and discover dangerous conditions. 16 Wash.
 16 Prac., Tort Law And Practice § 17.5 (3d ed.) (and cited cases). A possessor's duty includes the 17 obligation to maintain those portions of the premises which the invitee is expressly or impliedly 18 invited to use or that he might reasonably be expected to use a in a reasonably safe condition.
 19

20 See Radford v. Hoquiam, 54 WnApp 351, 360, 773 P.2d 861 (1989).

21 The invitee has the right to expect that the premises have been made safe for the invitee's

1 to take reasonable care to ascertain the actual condition of the premises and take steps to protect 2 the invitees from foreseeable harm. See, cmt. d. Comment "e" reads as follows:
 3

4 e. Preparation required for invitee. In determining the extent of preparation which an 5 Invitee is entitled to expect to be made for his protection, the nature of the land and the 6 purposes for which it is used are of great importance. One who enters a private residence 7 even for purposes connected with the owner's business, is entitled to expect only such 8 preparation as a reasonably prudent householder makes for the reception of such visitors.
On the other hand, one entering a store, theatre, office building, or hotel, is entitled to expect that his host will make far greater preparations to secure the safety of his patrons than a householder will make for his social or even his business visitors.

9 Restatement, § 343 cmt. e. (emphasis supplied)

10 Issues of material fact are almost always present where the dangerous condition was 11 not caused by the possessor. In that case, a plaintiff may establish the possessor knew or should 12 have known of the hazardous condition in time to remedy the situation. Ingersoll v. DeBartolo, Inc., 123 Wash.2d 649, 652, 869 P.2d 1014 (1994); (citing Brant v. Market Basket Stores, Inc., 72 Wash.2d 446, 451-52, 433 P.2d 863 (1967). Whether a defective condition existed long 13 enough so that it should have reasonably been discovered is a question of fact for the jury.
 14 Presnell v. Safeway Stores, Inc., 60 Wash.2d 671, 675, 374 P.2d 939 (1962) (citing Bridgman v. Safeway Stores, Inc., 53 Cal.2d 443, 348 P.2d 696, 2 Cal.Rptr. 146 (1960).

15 Here, a reasonable fact-finder can review the evidence of damages to the lighting units, 16 consider Wal-Mart's procedures and documentation, make reasonable inferences, and conclude 17 that Wal-Mart did not act reasonably in its failure to discover the hazardous condition.

18 Various issues of material are unresolved. Included are whether the damage to the 19 fixtures and area caused by vandals prior to the incident should have been noticed earlier; 20 whether the brutalized condition of the units were reasonably apparent and should have been

1 discovered by Wal-Mart. The vandals allegedly destroyed six of the light fixtures along the 2 walkway, including the one touched by AB. Inspection of the removed fixtures indicated 3 significant and apparent damage to the units. The fixtures had been pounded. There was 4 extensive and apparent damage to the lenses, louvers, glass diffusers. The fixtures may have 5 been fully or partially separated from their poles. If so, the hazards were not latent and should 6 have been noticed by Wal-Mart in the exercise of ordinary care. Photographs submitted by Wal-7 Mart and taken the day following the incident indicate that the fixtures had been torn from their 8 poles, and wires protrude. It can reasonably be found that the vandalism was extensive, took 9 some time, created a mess, and was loud. Given this, a jury may find Wal-Mart's failure to 10 know of the associated hazards was not reasonable and Wal-Mart acted below the standard of 11 care a possessor owes an invitee.
 12

13 The condition of the light fixture at the time of the incident is unresolved. Wal-Mart 14 itself contributes to the question of fact by claiming that the light had been vandalized prior to 15 the incident, there is evidence of substantial damages to the exteriors and interiors of the six light 16 units, yet Wal-Mart claims the unit appeared in all respects to be in good working order such that 17 Wal-Mart had no reasonable means to suspect a hazard existed.
 18

19 b. Vandalism is Foreseeable. It is a Normal Occurrence and Constant known Risk.
 20 It is Also Known that Live Powered Lighting Fixtures Can Become Dangerous if 21 Damaged.

22 Common sense tells us that properly maintained and inspected lighting units do not 23 generally present accessible hazards of electrocution. A properly maintained fixture does not 24 allow simple and easy access such that a two year old can simply reach out and contact a live

1 wire. Had Wal-Mart inspected the area, it is likely Wal-Mart would discover that a group of six 2 fixtures had been battered, parts were cracked and broken, and the fixtures detached in whole or 3 part from the poles. Wal-Mart should then have ensured that invitees are warned or protected 4 from contacting the live electrical wires. Noting the dangerous condition is Wal-Mart's duty, not 5 the invitee's. The invitee may rely on the expectation that the premises have been inspected and 6 made safe for ordinary use.

7
 8 Damage to property by vandalism (or other means, such as accident, wear and tear, age, 9 etc) is a constant known threat. It is unreasonable to claim vandalism is not foreseeable- whether 10 in Spanaway or any other city.

11 Because the appurtenance is vulnerable to vandalism or other damage, and can present 12 unreasonable hazards if allowed to remain in a damaged condition, reasonable inspection 13 practices should account for this known risk. It is simply common sense that lighting units are 14 subject and vulnerable to damage by vandalism or by other forces. It is known that a damaged 15 lighting fixture connected to a live power source can present unreasonably dangerous hazards if 16 damaged. Thus reasonable care by a possessor of land of those areas which the public are invited 17 to use includes a practice of regular physical inspections to discover and handle potentially 18 unsafe conditions. Damage to lights, including by vandalism, are within the realm of foreseeable 19 events. That is why Wal-Mart maintains insurance coverage for potential losses caused by 20 vandalism—it's a known risk.

1 As set forth in the Facts, Wal-Mart failed to preserve important evidence, or document 2 important conditions. The area has been in Wal-Mart's exclusive control, and Wal-Mart was 3 aware of the potential claim, and need to preserve evidence, or preserve documentation of the 4 conditions of the area. It is improper for Wal-Mart to benefit from spoliation of evidence.
 5

6 Spoliation refers referring to the legal conclusion that a party's destruction of evidence 7 was both willful and improper. Tegland, 5 Wash. Practice: Evidence §402.6 at 37 (Supp. 2005).
 8 Henderson v. Tyrrell, 80 WnApp.592 (1996). Henderson adopted a two-prong test to determine 9 whether evidence was spoliated:

10 1. What is the potential importance or relevance of the missing evidence?
 11 and;
 12 2. What is the culpability or fault of the adverse party? Id. at 607 (citations 13 omitted).

14 Analysis of these two issues depends on the particular circumstances of the case. Does 15 the loss or destruction of the evidence give an investigative advantage for one party over 16 another? Did the moving party have an adequate opportunity to examine the evidence?
 17 Henderson at 607. The culpability issue necessitates analysis of whether the party acted in bad 18 faith, or with conscious disregard of the importance of the evidence, or was there some "innocent 19 explanation." Id. at 609. Even in the absence of bad faith, a party may still be liable for the 20 destruction of evidence where there was a duty to preserve it. Id. at 610. Given this, AB should 21 not be penalized because of Wal-Mart's culpability in the spoliation of important evidence.
 22 Inferences are appropriate in favor of the plaintiff. It may also be appropriate for other remedies, 23 such as a shift of burden of proof.
